What you'll need to get started

Make sure you have:

- Your current prescription.
- The name and contact information of your eye doctor for our verification purposes.
- After you've gathered this information, you're ready to order.

Understanding your Rx

Your contact lens prescription contains specific information about the corrective power required to help you see clearly. You'll need to provide us with your prescription information when you order your contacts so we can send you exactly what you need. Visit www.contactsdirect.com for an example of a typical lens prescription.

If you have any questions regarding your prescription or need to clarify the information contained within, contact your eye doctor. We cannot provide advice about your prescription, corrective requirements, or which lenses are best for you.
